WHY THE REPUBLICANS WIN.

STEAL DEMOCRATIC POLICIES. BOURKE COCKRAN SAYS,

And Contrive to Make the People Believe That the Democratic Politiclans Are Crazy-Democracy Is a Faith, Republicanism is an Appetite.

W. Bourke Cockran, who was renominated for Congress last night in the Twelfth district by Tammany, made an address, in the course of which he said that the whole of Democratic doctrine was comprised in the sentence, "In the sweat of thy brow shalt thou eat bread." The troubles of men and nations rose from man's disposition to eat bread on the sweat of other men's brows. Every attempt of government to divert the fruits of labor from the man who creates them to the man who covets them was un-Demo-

Personal profit, Mr. Cookran said, was the Republican governing purpose. The Democratic party will sacrifice success at the polls rather than suppress a conviction; the Republican party vice versa. Democracy is a faith; Republicanism is an

The Republican party has maintained itself in power, not by enforcing its own principles, but by appropriating Demoprinciples, but by appropriating Democratic principles. The unbroken policy of the country for forty years might be defined as a steady adoption of Democratic policies and the almost equally steady persistence in entrusting the enforcement of them to the Republican party, the latter tendency having been a source of great in jury to the body politic; the dreadful lynching of negroes, for instance, which many in the South believe to be a necessary protective measure, in sequel to "reconstruction"; unholy enterprises of conquest as a sequel to the lofty enterprise of humanity and olvilization—the Democratic policy of intervention in Cuba. Mr. Cockran explained the forty year tendency he noted in the following words:

Republicans are very generally regarded as corrupt, but somehow or other they have succeeded in persuading the people that Democratic politicians are crazy, and the electors, believing themselves reduced to a choice between crazy men and corrupt men, have preferred to trust the corrupt, probably on the ground that rogues can be dealt with according to their roguery, while lunatics cannot be dealt with a tail. Remember that I am far from saying that this view of Democratic politicians is justified; but I think the whole trend of results ought to leave little doubt that the opinion is widely held. And the justification of a popular opinion does not in any way affect its influence on results.

The function of government in the last tendency he noted in the following words fluence on results.

The function of government in the last analysis is essentially that of a policeman, and a policeman who is sensible as well as honest is, of course, the one whom every one would like to see in the post of authority. But if you be reduced to a choice between a policeman who taps your till of a few dollars every day and one who abhors robbery but would insist upon stopping it by blowing up your house with dynamite, you would very naturally try to make terms with the rogue and save some of your money, rather than have all your property destroyed by the lunatic with whom it would be impossible to reason or make any terms whatever.

Now the Republican does not deny that his lunatic with whom it would be impossible to reason or make any terms whatever.

Now, the Republican does not deny that his hand is in the national till and that it will remain there, but some way or other he appears to have succeeded in persuading the people that the Democrats who denounce his robbery would paralyze all commerce and wreck all property if they were allowed to drive him away. And so the people have preferred submitting to peculation which, however grievous and demoralizing, leaves them something of what their labor produces, rather than risk what they think might be the total destruction of their industrial system by well meant but utterly extravagant and ruinous political experiments. No one regrets this impression of Democratic politicians more than I. Our business here, however, is not to gloss over or disguise the causes of our defeats, but to seek them honestly, disclose them candidly, and labor to removed is not open to doubt. For whenever it has been made clear to this country that the policies which the Democratic pairty supported were consistent with efficient and orderly government, and that its candidates were capable of enforcing them, popular support has followed immediately and overwhelmingly. The party has been successful, as what is known as a tidal wave has always set in.

To restore confidence in the Democratic party the first essential step is to establish not that its leaders are honest, for that I think is generally conceded, but that they are sane. In order to remove the impression of insanity, however, Democrats must not go to the other extreme and let themselves sink to the other extreme and let themselves sink into inanity. To free ourselves from suspicion of supporting dangerous principles, we must not expose ourselves to the suspicion of having no principles at all. To achieve success only two things are necessary, and both these are absolutely essential. The party must show first-that it has principles which are sane, and, secondly, that all its members are united in support of them. Let us but do this and victory decisive, overwhelming and enduring is absolutely certain.

CONGRESS NOMINEES IN KINGS. Conventions All Harmonious Four Renominations, Including Robert H. Baker. General harmony prevailed at the Democratic Congress conventions, which were held in Kings county last night, no clash occurring between the McCarren and anti-McCarren forces. These were the candidates nominated:

SECOND DISTRICT—George H. Lindsay.
THIRD DISTRICT—Ephralm Byk.
FOURTH DISTRICT—DT. Frank E. Wilson.
FIFTH DISTRICT—John J. Roach.
SIXTH DISTRICT—Robert H. Baker.
SEVENTH DISTRICT—John J. Fitzgerald.

Dunwell, Republican, pulled through by a slender plurality.

The five Democratic Congressmen, with the exception of Mr. Bassett in the Fifth, were renominated. Mr. Bassett also could have had a renomination, but declined it, owing to his desire to renew his law practice. Mr. Roach, who has been named as his successor, is a lawyer and also a member of the Consolidated Stock Exchange. Mr. Byk. who has been chosen to make the Byk. who has been chosen to make the uphill race in the Third district, is a lawyer. Two years ago he was a candidate for the Assembly in the Seventeenth district, and made a creditable showing in that Republican strength.

but there was no scrap over the renomina-tion of Mr. Baker.

The reelection of Lindsay in the Second and of Fitzgerald in the Seventh districts is, of course, a foregone conclusion. It is also conceded that Dr. Wilson has an ex-cellent chance to represent the Fourth district for another term. The Republi-cans will, as usual, carry the Third district and will fight hard to regain control in the Fifth and Sixth.

PLURALITY TOO BIG TO COUNT On Election Night for Herrick in This Town, Says Murphy.

Leader Charles F. Murphy is putting in several hours of hard work a day at Tammany Hall to fulfil his promise that Tammany will roll up a majority for the Democratic State ticket which will prove that he was sincere when he said that his organization would abide faithfully by the decision of the Democratic State conven-decision of the Demonstration.

When he was asked yesterday if he thought Judge Herrick would run well here he replied: "He will run so fast that they will never catch him either in this sity or in the State."

"What will his plurality be in the city, do you think?"

"It will be so large that we won't be able to count it on election night."

HALF RATES FOR VOTERS. Western Railroads to Give Special Terms for Election Time.

CHICAGO, Oct. 8.—At the request of the Republican national committee all the Western railroads will make practically half rates to men returning to their homes to vote, and the same to dependent members of their families accompanying them.

An agreement to that effect was reached at a special meeting to-day of the Western Passenger Association. Not all the lines were represented, but undoubtedly they will agree to give a round trip ticket for the amount of the regular one way fare plus $2. This will be tendered connecting lines as a basing rate making it available by persons now outside as well as in the territory of the association. To secure the half rate the voter must have a certificate from accredited officers of political organizations, usually the

Will Be Snowed Under in the County. UTICA, Oct. 3.-As the campaign progresses the Republican leaders in Oneida county become more and more convinced that, unless something quickly develops to stem the tide now running in Judge Herrick's favor, Gov. Odell's ticket, headed by Higgins for Governor, is not only going to fail to carry this Republican stronghold, but will be snowed under in Oneida county at the coming election. It is now understood that the campaigners for the Republican county committee will steer clear of any reference to Governor-Chairman Odell and his administration, and try to make the people believe that Higgins will be the Governor if he is elected. The speaking campaign will be begun this week.

Many Republicans hereabouts have received letters from Governor-Chairman

Many Republicans hereabouts have received letters from Governor-Chairman Odell's New York bureau asking the reciplents to send information as to the conditions of the party in this vicinity. The letters are nicely worded and the recipients are led to believe that they are known personally to Odell and that their views of the situation are greatly desired. The letters have been sent to the many Republicans who are regarded as "slightly off" on certain parts of the ticket. Other letters received by State officeholders, in Oneida county make a flat demand for money to aid in the election of Odell's candidates.

SECY. WILSON'S PREDICTION.

No Soubt, He Says, That New York and New Jersey Will Go for Roosevelt.

New Jersey will go Republican by a large majority, and the President will carry New York by many thousands. Why? Because the people do not want a change in the politics of the Government and because they are well satisfied with President Roosevelt as the Chief Executive of the country. These are the two reasons that will determine the vote of the country in November. The President will run many votes ahead of the State ticket in nearly every State in the country, showing his personal attraction for the people."

JOHN C. CROSBY WON'T RUN. Decen't Want Second Place on the Bay State Democratic Ticket.

Bosron, Oct. 3.—In making up the Demo cratic State ticket the Hon. John C. Crosby of Pittsfield will have to be counted out. He declined the nomination for Lieutenant Governor last year, after it had been of-Governor last year, after it had been of-fered to him by the State convention, and to-day he sent a letter to the executive committee of the Democratic State com-mittee announcing that he will not be a candidate for the office this year. This matter was discussed this after-noon at a meeting of the committee, and, so far as could be learned, no one else was decided upon. The Hon. Nathan Matthews, ex-Mayor of Boson, was elected to preside over the convention and the Hon. Charles C. Hamblin was made chairman of the committee on resolutons, as had be speech at the Manhattan Club Hardly Expected-Judge Parker Will Be in New York Most of the Time Now -Last Evening With Sheehan Alone.

Candidate Parker is here again, coat off and hard at work. He has transferred practically all his part of the management of the Democratic national campaign from Rosemount to the Hotel Seville. He will remain in New York until Thursday night at least, and the Monday-to-Thursday stays will probably continue all this month. Judge Parker not only is receiving the politicians with whom he is anxious to confer, but he is attending, in spare moments, to a lot of correspondence with leaders who are trying to carry doubtful States and want his advice as to the best method. There was no indication yesterday that Mr. Parker will change his mind about not speaking at the Manhattan Club reception to-morrow night. His managers have about given up hope that he will make any speeches at all. Now they are turning toward Judge Herrick as a means of carrying the State for the national ticket Three of Judge Parker's friends-Cord Meyer, Norman E. Mack and William S Rodie-who called on him yesterday, had this in mind. They, and most of the other Parkerites, are convinced that the grocery issue is certain to elect Judge Herrick, and they want to find a way to make Judge Parker profit by a Herrick landslide. They all admire Judge Herrick's plan of straightforward, outspoken campaign, but they believe it is too late to get the national candidate to do as much for himself as Judge Herrick is doing for the State ticket. Hence they must be content to let the Herrick enthusiasm aid Parker, if possible,

Just why J. Howell Cobb of Juneau, Just why J. Howell Cobb of Juneau, Alaska, visited Judge Parker was not so evident. Several politicians about the Seville averred that Mr. Cobb was the national committeeman for the Territory. That position is still held, as it was held on the occasion of the national committee's visit to Esopus, by David Bennett Hill, for he retains the unthawed proxy of the committeeman and seems likely to hang on to it.

Norman E. Mack, who is national com-mitteeman for this State, brought with him on one of his several visits to the can-didate yesterday C. P. O'Donnell of Colorado, whose supposed mission was to confer with Judge Parker on the best means of getting the votes of silver Democrats.

NO ONE TO BLAME FOR FIRE. Owner, Lessee and Contractor Discharged

The Coroner's jury returned a verdict yesterday that no one was directly responsible for the fire at 164 Attorney street on Sept. 4, in which fourteen persons lost their lives, but that the responsibility for the inspection of such places should be vested in either the Tenement House Department or the Building Department, so that either one or the other could be held "guilty of all discrepancies." The inquest was on the death of Yetta Miller and the thirteen others who were suffocated to death in the fire. It was presided over by Coroner Scholer, who recommended, when the evidence was all in, that the owner, lessee and con-

"From my personal knowledge I know there has been a conflict between the two departments for some time. Both disregard their duties, and both can shirk responsibility, so both departments should be under one head."

Seven witnesses were examined. Chief Inspector Lee of the Tenement House Department told of the improvements which were under way on the building, and said that the last time he inspected the building, just previous to the fire, the fire escapes were all in place. Capt. Kane of the engine company that responded first told of finding the fire escapes blocked with household goods belonging to the tenants. The testimony of the other witnesses went to show that none of the immates was burned to death on the escapes, but that all perished death on the escapes, but that all perished of suffocation in their rooms or the hall-ways. was equally non-communicative. But she kept the policemen on the go, for within an hour she had pointed out three different men as the husband. The first was a lawyer, fairly well known about the courts; the second a secretary of one of the judges, and the third a juror awaiting his call. Each established his identity without much trouble, and when the policemen called on the woman for an explanation she could merely answer:

Long Celestial Journey, Max Brisker, a sailor without a berth, boarded a steam launch in the Hudson Square Park basin, Hoboken, early yesterday morning, got up steam and started the craft towards the middle of the river. Samuel Stanton, a watchman for the Valencia Boat Club, went after the sailor in a dingy. He overtook the launch well out in the stream, and asked Brisker where he was going.

The sailor made a megaphone with his hands, and shouted. "I'm bound for heaven. Do you want to go along? Hurry up and get aboard, or the devil will get you. Stanton ran his boat alongside the launch and climbed over the rail. He asked for further particulars of the trip, and Brisker said that when he reached the celestial shores with his 40,000-odd passengers consigned to St. Peter he would receive a crown and a nice little throne.

Stanton volunteered to act as pilot, and steered the launch back to Hoboken. He took the sailor to the police station, where he was held to await an examination as to SMALL BID FOR FRISCO BONDS. Bankers and Public Men Rebuke the Labor Administration of the City.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 3 .- The poor opinion which the leading bankers and business men of San Francisco entertain of Mayor Schmitz and his union labor administration was shown strikingly to-day when out of $4,500,000 of new city bonds for public improvements only $277,000 were bid for. The State Board of Examiners bid for $250,000. The remainder included two private bids for $12,000 and $15,000.

These bonds were to be taken at par for twenty years at 31/2 per cent. There is no question that a syndicate of bankers would have been formed and the full amount promptly subscribed for had it not been for the general feeling among the leading men of the city that the Mayor's administration should not be trusted with the spending of this money because of the notorious corruption in all the depart-

PREVAILING RATE BUDGET. Board of Estimate Starts an Independent Inquiry About Wages.

The Board of Estimate began work yesterday on the budget by giving public hearings on the departmental estimates. The board sat for several hours listening to the appeals of heads of departments for more money. HERRICK SLEDGEHAMMER OUT

HE WILL LAY ON AND SPARE NOT UPON ODELLISM. Believes He Can Carry the State on That Issue if He Can Get What He Has

Learned About It at Albany Flatly

Before the Voters-And He'll Try Judge Herrick, the Democratic nominee for Governor, will come down from Albany to-morrow to have a talk with Judge Parker and confer with the managers of the national and State headquarters in order to map out a plan of campaign that will be acceptable to both. Judge Herrick has already let it be known that in that campaign he will have nothing to say on the national issues. He will talk on one topic only. That topic will be Odellism. Judge Herrick told the chieftains who talked with him in Albany last week that he feels confident of being able to carry the State if he can lay before the voters all that he knows concerning the system of State administration under Odell. It is said of Judge Herrick that he is an ideal campaigner when it comes to pushing home unpleasant truths against an opponent; and that there is probably no man in the State so well informed of the real conditions which have prevailed at Albany It is believed at Democratic State headquarters that the Judge will have some mighty interesting things to say for honesty as opposed to graft. In his speech of acceptance Judge Herrick promised that if he should be elected he would throw open the books or the epoch of graft at Albany of the last four years and would expose from the written records the corrupt system which has grown up at Albany under the existing régime. It was learned yesterday that he will not nave to wait for access to the books. He already has sufficient data.

In making up his mind to have a personal campaign of the sledgehammer kind Judge Herrick consulted the wishes of no one put himself. To the Democratic leaders with whom he talked after the notification ceremonies on Saturday he said that the cry tration was to refrain from bidding for throughout the State on the part of the people before the Saratoga convention was for a candidate who could make an effective campaign against graft, and he told those leaders that he had decided to make a campaign that would be thoroughly satisfactory to those who urged the nomination of a man not likely to hesitate about calling a spade a spade.

tion of a man not likely to hesitate about calling a spade a spade.

Juage Herrick is anxious that Judge Parker himself shall make several speeches in the more populous centres of the State. When Judge Herrick gets here to-morrow he will, it is understood, tell the Democratic Presidential nominee why he thinks it desirable that this course should be followed.

Judge Herrick's first public appearance since his nomination, outside of the noti-fication ceremony, will be at the reception fication ceremony, will be at the reception which is to be given to-morrow night at the Manhattan Club to Judge Parker and the nominees of the State convention. The arrangements do not call for any speechmaking, but if theopportunity should arise it is probable that Judge Herrick may make a few pertinent remarks. He believes in short speeches and in none of the addresses he will make outside of the big mass meetings in this city will he speak for more than fifteen or twenty minutes.

Very Heavy Enrolment of Pupils-Recreation Centres Popular, Too. number of the recreation centres and evening schools opened last evening. and over in the swarming East Side the attendance was so large that policemen had to stand at the doors of the schools to keep in order the crowd clamoring to get in. The schoolhouse at the corner of Rivington and Suffolk streets was used last year as a recreation centre, but the night school attendance this fall promised to be so large that recreation department work was abandoned. The promise of a heavy attendance at the night school was more than made good at the opening last evening. Over 400 pupils were registered, and Suffolk street, in front of the main entrance, was partly blocked for over an hour after the doors closed by a crowd of boys, nearly all of whom had tickets, but who could not then be taken in and classified. They were told to come again to-night. The girls' night school in East Houston street was also overwhelmed with applicants for admission.

The largest of the recreation centres will be in the big new schoolhouse at Houston and Lewis streets, where, it is expected, between 700 and 800 members will be admitted. It was to have opened last night, but owing to the illustrated lecture on "London: Its Landmarks and Marvels," by Prof. Henry E. Northrup, which was billed for the same evening, the recreation centre opening was postponed until tonight. This recreation centre may be taken as a fair sample of all the rest. It has a gymnastic instructor with nine assistants, besides a corps of teachers in various branches. There are books for those who want to read, games for those who don't, half a dozen or more boys' chubs and entertainments of various kinds calculated to be attractive to boys of over calculated to be attractive to boys of over 14 years of age, for whom they are intended. The name and address of each attendant is taken and he is regularly enrolled.
